GEORGIANS FOR A
HEALTHY FUTURE

THE VOICE FOR GEORGIA HEALTH CARE CONSUMERS

Dear Friends,

Thank you for joining us for Georgians for a Healthy Future's sixth annual Health Care Unscrambled policy breakfast! We are honored that you are sharing your morning with us to discuss the health care policy issues that our state policymakers will tackle this year and to learn about emerging trends in health policy from around the country.

We are nearing the end of the third open enrollment period, and more than half a million Georgians have enrolled in health insurance. As our state's uninsured rate declines and more Georgians have coverage, advocates, stakeholders, and policymakers have new opportunities to focus on improving access to care, enhancing health care value, and building a healthier Georgia.

At the same time, there is still work to do to ensure that all Georgians have an opportunity to get covered. This means working with community partners and enrollment assisters to connect eligible Georgians to coverage and advocating for Georgia to close the coverage gap by expanding Medicaid. Georgians for a Healthy Future is excited to work with our partners across Georgia to accomplish these goals.

This morning's program features two timely conversations. The first is a panel discussion with a bipartisan group of state legislators who are deeply engaged in health care policy at the Capitol. We'll talk with them about their health care priorities and what they are expecting for the 2016 Legislative Session. The second conversation, What's Next: Emerging Issues for Health Advocates, will look at health care value and population health. We'll hear from national experts Lynn Quincy of Consumers Union and Sue Polis from Trust for America's Health.

We will also share with you our 2016 policy priorities and our new website which is designed to be more engaging and intuitive. Thank you again for spending your morning with us.

Sincerely,

Cindy Zeldin, MPH
Executive Director

Allison Burroughs
Chair, Board of Directors

LYNN QUINCY

Director

Health Care Value Hub at Consumers Union

---

Lynn Quincy is Director of the Health Care Value Hub at Consumers Union, the policy and advocacy division of Consumer Reports. The Health Care Value Hub is a new center that monitors and synthesizes evidence to help advocates work on health care cost, quality and value issues. More generally, Ms. Quincy works at the federal and state levels on a wide variety of health policy issues, with a particular focus on health care costs, transparency, consumer protections, and consumers' health insurance literacy. Recent work includes: convening a conference for advocates on rising health care costs, a mixed methods study to better understand how to better engage consumers around health care cost and value issues, consumer-testing explanations of the new health premium tax credit; studying consumer reactions to new health insurance disclosure forms; launching an initiative to measure consumers' health insurance literacy; and a study that examines the use of "choice architecture" in health plan chooser tools. Ms. Quincy serves as a consumer expert in several venues, including advising on the development of new enrollee satisfaction surveys, advising CMS on new provider payment reforms, and on an advisory group that focuses on consumer price transparency.

Prior to joining Consumers Union, Ms. Quincy held senior positions with Mathematica Policy Research, Inc., the Institute for Health Policy Solutions and Watson Wyatt Worldwide (now Towers Watson). She holds a master's degree in economics from the University of Maryland.

SUE PECHILIO POLIS

Director of External Relations and Outreach

Trust for America's Health

---

Sue Pechilio Polis is responsible for directing the development and management of the Trust for America's Health (TFAH) external affairs and advocacy outreach efforts in support of the organization's public policy goals. Prior to joining TFAH, Mrs. Polis worked at AARP on health and financial security-related issues including advocacy, outreach, and campaign planning and implementation efforts. Prior to joining AARP, Mrs. Polis was the first National Director of Grassroots Advocacy for the American Heart Association. She was responsible for the development and implementation of a five-year strategic plan that led to significant growth of the organization's advocacy capacity in support of public policy objectives at the federal and state levels. Mrs. Polis was Director of Marketing for Winning Connections, an electoral and grassroots consulting firm in Washington, DC. She worked with a wide range of clients on environmental, tobacco, and health-related issues. Prior to that, she was the Director of Political Programs with the Association for Advanced Life Underwriting. She was responsible for political fundraising programs and key contact recruitment and outreach. Mrs. Polis began her career in New Jersey as a paralegal with the firm of Crummy, DelDeo, Dolan, Griffinger and Vecchione and is a graduate of Seton Hall University with a major in political science. She lives with her husband and two children in the Washington, DC area.
